

Bachelor of Architecture (B.Arch)

What is a Bachelor of Architecture (B.Arch.)?

Bachelor of Architecture is a five-year program. This training covers different dimensions of different fields like finance, engineering, aesthetics. Architects are those who create architectural models, plans, and other structures or physical structures. The Bachelor of Architecture focuses on architectural design, art and basic design, architecture and construction, and design. Methodology, History of Architecture, Computer Applications, Work-to-Work Images and Architecture

B.Arch course consists of many topics like thesis, analytical study, project work, practical training and research. The course also covers building materials training. for any property architecture, preparation of building plans and study of other physical structures.

Eligibility for Bachelor of Architecture For admission to B.Arch, students must fulfill the following requirements for admission to Bachelor of Architecture: In addition to the required courses, students must have passed 12th standard or Completion of equivalent course with minimum 50% marks (PCM). The research percentage of reserved class is 45% (a 5 percent relaxation).

Candidates should have completed 3 years PhD in any discipline in class 10th from a recognized University/Board/Institute.

Candidates should have passed NATA (National Architecture Aptitude Test) with 80% marks in Council of Architecture (CoA) of Manawargarh. Some universities also conduct entrance exams for admission to architecture. So NATA cutoff is not guaranteed.

Advantages of Bachelor of Architecture Individuals interested in designing and creating should definitely pursue the Cup course, as this course will turn their meager and naive talents into creative leaders. It helps. The average B. Archer salary in India starts at INR 350000 and is higher compared to the starting salary of other courses. By 2025, the global textile services market will be valued at $395 billion and will grow at a CAGR of 4.2 percent between 2020 and 2025. It is important for the general architect to visit new places to see and understand the many important types of architecture in different regions. This allows more exposure and more opportunities for great work. In addition to being an architect, students can also become national architects, city planners, urban planners, planners and assistant planners.

Bachelor of Architecture Future Objectives

After completing the Bachelor of Architecture program, students can attend master classes like M.Arch and MBA to enhance their skills; Applicants are eligible to take up any Diploma or PG programme. Diploma